

Vad Amsterdam Whitney Gallery i New York tycker om min konst:

Claude Monet once advised, "Paint what you really see, not what you think you ought to see; not the object isolated as in a test tube, but the object enveloped in sunlight and atmosphere, with the blue dome of Heaven reflected in the shadows."

Like Monet, Contemporary artist Anne Hauger paints beautiful landscapes brimming with the spirit, color, and light of the artist's impression.

Ms. Hauger's stunning depictions of the world around her effortlessly transport the viewer to idyllic locales throughout Europe and New Zealand.

The very essence of each location exudes from the beautiful tableaux, filling the spectator's space with the scent of fresh spring blooms, the caress of the late afternoon sunlight and the sound of the waves lapping the shore. Ms. Hauger crafts this alluring atmosphere through her masterful coloration and textural brushstrokes.

She skillfully manipulates the acrylic medium, working with quick staccato brushstrokes that seem to lift right off the canvas. By layering the paint in this Impressionist manner, Ms. Hauger allows her colors to sing with unparalleled vivacity.

The artist carefully balances bursts of pure color with ethereal highlights, creating a welcoming aura of warm natural light that emanates from each of her scenes. Ms. Hauger's works are captivating and timeless, elevating the mind and spirit through their soothing aesthetic splendor.

Sweden-based artist Anne Hauger has been painting professionally for more than two decades. She has exhibited extensively in Europe and her work is held in several university and government collections.

Amsterdam Whitney Gallery is proud to spotlight her exceptional artwork.